Entertainment by... Ayline Amirayan

Ayline Amirayan mother of three girls, grew up in Canoga Park, CA in a house filled with music. At the age of 5, Ayline began taking piano lessons for 10 years. After graduating high school from Ferrahian Armenian School, she majored in music at the local community college. Her lack of confidence and feelings of fear made Ayline change her major to become a special education teacher. She has been teaching children with special needs for the past 20 years. However, music always remained Ayline's passion. It was only after the birth of her daughters that Ayline decided to pursue her career in music. She decided that she will forever be a role model to her daughters and teach them, by example, to do what they truly love in life. She then taught herself to play the guitar and built her confidence back up to sing in public and live her life long dream.

With guitar in hand, Ayline began her singing career by first singing to her students. She later sang at various local farmers markets, street fairs, community events, cafes / restaurants, special events and private parties. This led to her entering local singing competitions and stage performances. Recently, she has sung in places such as the Troubadour L.A., the El Rey Theater, the MOSAIC V concert at the Sam Gabriel Mission Play House hosted by Hamazkayin, and guest sang at an event hosted by the Baryuyr Sevag Chapter Sayat Nova Choir at the Occidental College Auditorium.

Ayline sings cover songs in genres which include folk, alternative rock, country and pop. Ayline's favorite genre of music, is without a doubt, Armenian folk songs. Singing to her fellow Armenians completes her as not only a person, but as the artist she has always wanted to become.

Ayline has recently released her first demo CD which include English and Armenian songs. She is currently working on her very first full album debut.

Lastly, Ayline has had the joy of being joined on stage with her daughters Lara (9) and Karmi (8).

It is a moment Ayline has waited for since their birth. Nothing gives Ayline more pleasure than having her daughters at her side.
